Summer 2009 Kids ROBOColumbus Camp

August 4-7, 2009

Application

The purpose of Summer 2009 Kids ROBOColumbus Camp is to excite elementary school children (grades 3-8) about math, science, engineering, technology and teamwork using Robotics.

The morning camp sessions will consist of hands-on experiences, guided by Dr. Joe Fuehne, Associate Professor of Mechanical Engineering Technology for Purdue University College of Technology-Columbus. These experiences will focus on the use of LEGO™ bricks to learn Robotics. Campers will learn how to build a LEGO™ Robot, how to attach light and touch sensors to the Robot, and how to control its movement with a program that uses information from those sensors.

The cost for camp is $50 per camper. Please include a check made out to The Center for Teaching & Learning. Scholarships are available upon request.

Please register by July 31, 2009.

Parents will be required to provide transportation to and from the camp. The Summer 2009 Kids ROBOColumbus Camp begins each day at 9:00 A.M. and ends at 12:00 P.M. Camp will take place in IUPUC rooms 109 and 111. Snacks will be provided. Any questions about registration can be directed to Lindsey Daugherty at 314-8739. Any questions about the camp itself can be directed to Joe Fuehne at 348-7203.
